EXPO2025 Theme Weeks Programme Guidebook

July 2025 Edition

Designing Future Society for Our Lives

A commitment to the world for opportunities to achieve the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and cocreate for the future

In the Bid Dossier submitted as a candidate to host Expo 2025 and the Registration Dossier submitted on formal registration of the Expo, the Japanese government promised to the world that Expo 2025 Osaka, Kansai, Japan would provide opportunities to achieve the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and co-create for the future. Theme Weeks are intended to fulfil this promise.

Significance

Bringing the wisdom of the world together for solutions to shared challenges

In its 1994 General Meeting, the Bureau International des Expositions (BIE) resolved that Expos should serve as venues for solutions to humanity's shared challenges.

The Dubai Expo in 2021, delayed one year by the COVID-19 pandemic, was held at a time when various restrictions on people's movements remained in place around the world. Despite this unprecedented challenge, the Dubai Expo proved a great success and featured numerous examples of efforts toward solutions reflecting the 1994 BIE General Meeting's resolution. Among these, it was the first Expo ever to adopt Theme Weeks, which can be described as symbolic of the Expo's meaning in a new age.

Considering building further on this inherited legacy of the Dubai Expo to be an important role, Expo 2025 Osaka, Kansai, Japan will continue the Theme Weeks programme.

World Expos have been held continually for more than 170 years since the first, in 1851 in London. While the world has experienced numerous dramatic changes over this period, the Expo too has evolved with the times. Nevertheless, the Expo's universal value of bringing the world together in one place for half a year remains unchanged. Human civilization has grown to the extent that it threatens the environment of the planet, and humanity remains unable to find a way out of division and conflict. As such, the Expo, as a place that brings the whole world together, can be said to be growing even more important. The Theme Weeks programme is an effort to draw this meaning of the Expo into even stronger relief, as a platform for generating the vitality needed to move the world toward a better future.

Expo 2025 Osaka, Kansai, Japan's Theme Weeks look at issues shared by all humanity, through eight sub-themes of the Expo. Each of these eight themes poses questions to encourage dialogue among the countries, regions, international agencies, companies, citizens' groups, and other Expo participants from around the world, in which each can express its own views and listen to those of others to generate shared understandings. They also serve as platforms for interaction among people taking practical action through business.

Theme Weeks will serve to bring the world's wisdom together for solutions to shared challenges.

Programme Structure

Joining with the world to build a bright future full of life

Aiming to build a bright future full of life together with the world, the Theme Weeks programme will be implemented through cooperation between the countries and regions from around the world participating in the Expo and regions of the host country Japan.

For this reason, the programme consist of programmes conducted on the Expo venue, categories into five tracks by Expo participants, and Theme Week Connect for connecting with the regions of Japan. The programme on the Expo venue also will implement Agenda 2025, planned and implemented by the organizers of Expo 2025 Osaka, Kansai, Japan themselves.

Each programme will be conducted in one of the following forms: discussion programmes for exchange of opinions among experts from around the world, on stage or in other forms; receptions and other business exchange programmes for business matching and other purposes; and exhibition programmes including activities such as exhibits and presentations in exhibition halls and similar venues.

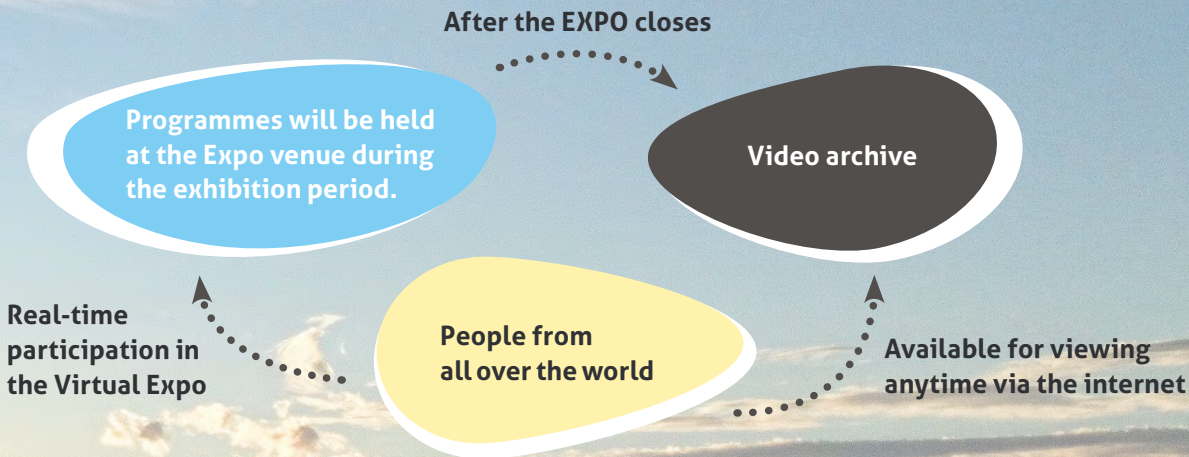

People can participate in Theme Week programmes from around the world through the Virtual Expo, and video archives will be retained as a legacy even after the end of the Expo.

Its programmes are in three categories: organized programmes planned and implemented by the Expo Association and overall sponsors; co-created programmes conducted jointly by outside organizations that support the aims of Theme Weeks and the Expo Association; and participation programmes in which companies and other organizations support and participate on themes that they choose individually.

Organized programmes will posit desirable visions for the future and develop scenarios for realizing them, in response to the questions posed by each Theme. The points of discussion programmes will be based on these scenarios, and optimal moderators and speakers will be selected to realize high-quality discussion sessions.

2025.09.27 Venue Open 10:00 Starting time 10:30 Closing time 12:30	Agenda2025 Co-created Programme Big Data and Biodiversity - how should the latest information technologies including AI be used and developed by 2050 to achieve nature positive?	Theme Weeks Studio Discussion points for the future vision in 2050: To what extent should humankind be able to acquire and track the vast amounts of biological and environmental data? Who should be able to use the data and for what purpose? How much of this data should be incorporated into daily lives and corporate activities and evaluations? How should society be designed to handle invisible and unpredictable aspects of the ecosystem that cannot be fully captured by existing technologies? Biodiversity is in decline at an alarming rate. Although the biological information on the earth is vastly diverse, what we can access is only a handful. In this time when AI and other information technologies are transforming our society at an unprecedented speed, we ask young change-makers how we should utilize and manage information-related technologies towards 2050 for biodiversity conservation and our planet. In fact, making nature richer is also making us, humans, richer. We have envisioned a future where Nature Positive and Human Positive meet through AI technology from a variety of perspectives, including business, the natural environment, and cultural creation. We propose actions to help make such a future a reality.	Shape New World Initiative
2025.09.27 Venue Open 17:00 Starting time 17:30 Closing time 19:30	Agenda2025 Co-created Programme Systems change to ensure sustainability of human society on Earth - what should our society look like in 2050 for humans and nature to be able to live in harmony?	Theme Weeks Studio Discussion points for the future in 2050: How should government, corporate, and individual money be distributed to conserve the natural environment? Among many political issues, whose voice should be included and how should policy decisions be made to achieve the coexistence of nature and human beings? How should development and conservation be balanced? What kind of education should be provided to children, youth, and adults regarding nature, and what kind of leaders should be developed? As we see more and more environmental challenges becoming prominent, the existence of human society on Earth is being questioned and it is clear that fundamental social changes need to be made. What is the form of society that will allow us to live on Earth for a long time to come? What kinds of updates should be made by 2050 in the areas of economy, politics, community development, and education, among others? We will ask honest opinions of young leaders actioning for our future planet.	Shape New World Initiative

A successful example from this programme is Astra's "Legenda Kopi Astra" brand, showcasing premium coffee varieties from regions like Takengon, Cikajang, Agam, Bondowoso, and Cikoneng. # The importance of Theme Weeks in Expo history

Since the first Expo in London in 1851, World Expos have been held in numerous major cities around the world. The first crop of Expos, held over the period of roughly 100 years from the mid-19th century, developed as opportunities for expressing national prestige, centered on industry and trade. However, the world changed dramatically after two world wars, leading to the aim to build a prosperous future through science and technology. In connection with this trend, the corporate world came to play an important role in World Expos. However, the world again entered a new age as a rigid focus on development led to severe environmental damage. Against the backdrop of these changing times, the 1994 BIE General Meeting established providing opponents for solutions to humanity's global challenges as the aim of World Expos. Expo 2025 Osaka, Kansai, Japan is the fourth registered Expo to be held since the start of the 21st century. Each of these has aimed for solutions to global challenges. As part of these efforts, the Theme Weeks established for the first time in the most recent Dubai Expo attracted worldwide attention as symbols of the significance that World Expos have built up over their history.
